Basic OLM format exporter that will help you convert your Mac Outlook data for use with other email platforms¹. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a gas turbine engine and, more particularly, to a turbine rotor assembly for a high pressure turbine which minimizes stress concentrations at selected rotor radially inner and outer regions. 2. Description of the Prior Art Gas turbine engines are well known in the art. A typical gas turbine engine includes a compressor, a combustor and a turbine. Compressed air from the compressor is fed to the combustor where the compressed air is mixed with fuel and burned for generating a hot gas. The hot gas expands through the turbine for performing work. The turbine typically includes a plurality of circumferentially spaced apart rotor stages. Each stage comprises a plurality of rotor blades coupled to the turbine rotor which are arranged circumferentially about the rotor. Each stage of a turbine may include a plurality of rotor blades arranged in rows. In one well known turbine design, the rotor blades of each row are attached to the turbine rotor in a generally helical pattern. Rotor blades in the rotor stage define platforms between adjacent rotor blades which are integrally formed at a radially outer end of the rotor blades. The radially outer platforms function to seal the hot gas path as the hot gas passes through the turbine, and to thereby prevent over-heating or damage to the turbine blades. The aft or
